Woodworkers vs. Invasives

-  Is there a risk
-  Is it the same nationwide
-  Is it across all woodworking
-  Is it all woods or products
-  How about international movement
-  How do we address the risk

Wood Species

Our figured wood is of the highest quality, milled from prime lumber harvested from our private sustainable forest of trees in northwestern Oregon. Our figured wood blocks are perfect for turning wood bowls, pens, and other objects on a lathe. Because our lumber is green (rather than kiln-dried), it is ideal for woodturning projects, and easy to work with and cut.

We also offer large burls, stumps, and slabs which are available for turning into furniture items, mantles, or other more sizable creations. The figuring you will commonly find in our selection of raw wood includes curly, fiddleback (or "fearstripe"), and quilted maple grain, and spalted maple and white oak. Browse our online catalog to find the perfect piece for starting your own woodworking project, and please contact us with any questions!

I salvaged this wonderful wood from a huge soft maple tree near the city of Linton, IN.

You will get the actual blank pictured.

The wood is not seasoned, and is still quite green. This tree had really pretty grain and colors, some spalting, and quite a few bug/worm holes leaving interesting color streaks. Some blanks show more of these features than others. For details, see the pictures.
